Do you think your education would benefit from a year at a foreign university ?

In France, go to a foreign university is common in an engineering school. On account of the many benefit of the foreign studies.

As I see it, there is a few inconveniences and many benefits. In fact, study in a foreign language is very difficult, I must understand the lecture, take notes, so I will work harder than people of this country.

In addition, I will be alone, in a foreign country, it can be difficult to start, and I could have homesick.

On the other hand, there is many benefits of the foreign studies. Firstly, I could learn the language of the country, it will be difficult at beginning (the first weeks), but it was benefit.

Secondly, I will see other approaches to studying, it's very interesting to know the educational system of another country. In this connection, if I do in another country, I should have a correspondence in the studies. So if I would go in European country, there is the LMD system to encourage the foreign studies.

Lastly, I would have an very good experiment, that I could put on the CV.

To conclude, my education would benefit if I go in a foreign university, I think the abroad programme could be an “life-changing” experience.
